The Bill Providing for Inspection o Steam Boilers Considered by the Committee of the Whole.

HUNT'S GAMBLING BILL.

It is Considered Section by Section by the Committee of the Whole House, Which Amends and Recommends Its Passage.

Considerable business was transacted in both branches of the legislature yesterday, more interest centering in the house than the council for the reason Hunt's gambling bill was under discussion by the committee of the whole which when it rose recomamended somewhat by the committee on amended somewhat by the committee on tways and means, several sure thing games being added to the inhibited games. While the financial condition of the territorial treasury is excellent, we cannot overlook the fact that unties of the territory are indebted to the past year of $137,000; that the direct per cent. annually. The indirect tax in the way of licenses, etc., is also heavy. The motion was withdrawn.

The first section enumerates a list of games that are prohibited, and fixes a penalty for violation of the statute. Comfort moved an amendment adding "round the table poker" and fare banks to the list. This brought Hunt to his feet who approved the amendment and advocated the passage of the bill.

which will certainly be more expensive than a territorial government, but under which the general revenues may not be correspondingly increased. The delay of a year will at the most not entail any very serious loss upon the territory, and the situation warrants great caution in these matters.

Your committee is more inclined to take this view of the proposed improvements from the unquestioned fact that under the prevailing system for the care of the insane and of prisoners both classes are well cared for, the interests of the classes and of the people are well protected, there is no complaint from any source while the institutions are conducted so openly that any irregularities would be quickly discovered and this a matter of considerable. erecit of Montana it could be said that her legislators had endeavored to keep abreast and ahead of the drift of public thought. Gentlemen of the Legislative Council:
On the 31st day of December, 1887. I appointed and commissioned Hon. W. E. He accepted, was regularly qualified, and has been from that time until now serving and executing the duties of that office. I now nominate him to that office for your approval, advice and consent. PRESTON H. LESLIE.
Brown gave notice of his intention to introduce a bill to amend sections 1236, 1237 and 1238 of the fifth division of the compiled statutes, concerning the legal rate of interest.

Middleton introduced council bill No. 11, amending section 845 of the fifth division of the compiled laws, the amendment prohibiting the employment of additional counsel by counties unless at the request of the county attorney, except in cases where the county attorney was an interested party or had been previously in the case. The bill was read first and second times and referred to the committee on printing.

Middleton introduced council bill No. 12, to amend section 1237 of the fifth division of the compiled statutes, the amendment providing that the chairman of the board of county commissioners, the county clerk, and the probate judge shall, twenty days before a term of the district court, select from the county assessor's books one hundred names of qualified jurymen; these names shall be written on slips of paper and placed in a box, and from this box shall be drawn the names of twenty persons who shall serve as trial jurors. The bill was read first and second times and ordered printed.

a time rather than to try to take them all off together and probably accomplish no practical results. He did not deem it feasible to add faro and table poker to the list of prohibited games. Pass this measure as it now stands and then bring in a separate bill for covering the ground proposed by the amendment. Comfort, the representative from Madison, heartily endorsed the measure so far as it went, but in his opinion it didn't go far enough. He thought the time had come in the history of Montana when all gambling should be prohibited by law. He saw little difference between a fair game of faro and a "sure thing" game of any kind. If in an honest game of faro a man won, he as certainly returned to try his fortune again and in the end the "bank" got the again and in the end the "bank" got the money. Any laws permitting gambling were a disgrace to the territory and he thought they should be wiped from the statute books.

After the usual preliminary exercises, Rea presented a petition signed by seventy-eight tax payers of Custer county, praying for the enactment of a bounty law.

The petition was read and referred to the committee on suriculture, manufactures and stock growing.

A communication was received from the governor announcing that he had signed bouse joint resolution No. 2 providing for

NOTICE OF BILLS.

By Carver—An act to prevent the dissemination of scab and infectious diseases ng their vocation to the end that the m squandered would drift into their coffers. He asked that the amendment be passed in the interest of the gamblers themselves who were tired and disgusted with a bus ness that brought only remorse and ruin. There was no member of the house or citi-zen of Heiena, Butte or Missoula who would not endorse the sentiment that gambling should be wiped out. Such being the case who was to hinder the execution of the law. Would it be the "lin horn" gambler, or the "fraternity" at large.

Blakeley hoped the amendment would not prevail. He thought the bill proposed by Hunt a thoroughly good one. It would do much to check an existing evil. If he was a friend to the gambling interest and wanted to kill the bill he would offer just wanted to kill the bill he would offer just such an amendment as had been proposed. As to swindling at fare he had no doubt that it was done, but if he was not seri-ously mistaken more or less swindling was done in all walks of life. If a bill passed to stop open gambling men would go to private rooms to indulge the pleasure, and it was in such places, so far as his experi-ence went, that men were swindled. Let us do as much good as we can and not strangle the bill. Joslyn emphatically opposed the amendment. In his opinion it was folly to pass a bill that would not prove effective in squelching this evil. The eastern states had laws absolutely prohibiting gambling, but if any one desired to gamble he had only to go to a hotel clerk and inquire in order to find an apartment well furnished with all the appliances for almost any game. Which was the better, to openly license games which were as fair as any thing in that line ever is, or to have then played in violation of law.

FELL BY THE BOX. Davis moved that the committee arise Davis moved that the committee arise. Motion lost. Mantle approved the amendment, beliving that the end desired by its supporters would not be accomplished. He thought the parties advocating it did so from principal, but practically it would result in accomplishing nothing. The object they desired to attain could be presented in a separate bill and what was the necessity of endangering the pending measure. a separate bill and what was the necessity of endangering the pending measure. Davis stated that he heartily approved the bill, and that his motion that the com-mittee arise was done for the purpose of giving the advocates of the amendment ar giving the advocates of the amendment an opportunity to express their views. For his part he was afraid it would interfere with the effective operation of the bill.

The motion on Comfort's amendment was then put and lost. Yeas, 18; nays, 4—Comfort, Willis, Murray and Swiggett.

When the house resumed for the afternoon session the chair announced that J. R. Oglesby had been appointed assistant watchman and janitor.

The house resolved itself into the committee of the whole for the purpose of further considering the bill for the suppression of certain gambling games, Saxton in the chair.

All went smoothly in a unanimous adoption of the various sections as they came up, or in their satisfactory amendment, which chiefly referred to typographical er-rors, until section No. 10 was reached, when a motion was made to strike out fare when a motion was made to strike out tare and around the table poker. This resulted in another discussion resulting in the final triumph of the advocates of the measure. The committee arose and the house resomed. Josiyn stated that the printed copies of bills furnished the house were so wretchedly gotten up that it led to serious annoyance and asked if the difficulty could not be remedied.

Congdon, from printing committee, replied that all bills passed through his hands and were carefully read and revised. The trouble was with the printer. The speaker stated that he had discovered house bill No. 2 to be full of typographical and grammatical errors, which did not appear in the original bill. He thought the matter might and should be remedied. The speaker signed in presence of the house council joint resolution No. 3 relat-ing to the Fort Ellis reservation also house joint resolution No. 2 providing for the printing of 500 copies of the governor's Saxton from the committee of the whole eported back house bill No. 2 with recom-nendation that as amended the bill pass. ### KNICHTS OF LABOR.

District Assembly No. 98 of the Territory of Montana Hold Their Semi-Annual Session.

A HARMONIOUS MEETING.

The Governor's Message and Measures Now Pending in the Legislature Discussed by the Knights and Endorsed.

For the past four days a very important envention has been in session in this city at the A. O. U. W. hall. It was the semi annual meeting of District Assembly No. 98, Knights of Labor, of the territory of Montana. The session was called to order Monday morning at 10 o'clock, and dele-Monday merhing at 10 o'clock, and delegates from every local assembly in the territory were present. After the usual routine business officers were elected for the ensuing year. Reports from officers show the order to be in a flourishing condition, both financially and in membership. The membership list has shown a flattering increase over last year, the order now having crease over last year, the order now having fully 2,500 men. It is also entirely out of field and has a good balance in the treasury, which is a very encouraging showing when it is considered that the K. of L. of Mon-tana were $14,000 in debt two years ago by reason of the Timberline coal miners' strike. Six new assembles have been organized within the year.

One of the first acts of the meeting after

One of the first acts of the meeting after the regular business was disposed of was to pass a resolution unanimously, endorsing the administration of T. V. Powderly, pledging themselves to uphold his every official act. The prevailing sentiment towards Thomas E. Barry was discarding him as a traitor and black sheep, and that it was for the good of the order to be rid of such members as he.

During the session the laws pending introduction or passage in the present legislature were considered, and any which tended to benefit the public welfare were endorsed. Particulary was the Australian tended to benefit the public welfare were endorsed. Particulary was the Australian system of voting discussed and by unanimous vote it was decided to be a great and good system, and the meeting hoped it would be passed; also any stringent registration law that would make the ballot pure. Intimidation of voters was denounced. Hunt's gambling bill was generally favored by the Knights, and while they considered it not far-reaching enough, it was looked upon as a good step in the they considered it not far-reaching enough, it was looked upon as a good step in the right direction, and sufficiently good for a starter, which would eventually result in wiping the evil out of existence in Montana. Seeveral members in commenting upon the measure expressed the opinion that Hon. William H. Hunt showed a more aggressive and intrepid disposition, in championing such a trepid disposition, in championing such a bill than has been shown heretofore by bill than has been shown heretofore by former law-makers.

The Knights of Labor expect a good deal from the present legislature, but they particularly urge the passage of a bill creating the territorial office of mine inspector and desire to have the present mechanics' lien law amended as recommended by petitions to the legislature now being circulated among the members. The proposed amendment provides that the attorney's fees be included in the costs of the action against the party upon whom the lien is filed. At present the workman has to bear the expense of employing an attorney, whose pense of employing an attorney, whose charges in many instances amounts to as much as the mechanic sues for.

All measures that have been or may be introduced in the legislature, which tend toward the advancement of the public at large, and especially matters relating to educational interests, are heartily endorsed Congdon, from printing committee, re- that he was an honest and fair-minded mar and when he wrote the document had the interest of the people and the territory at heart. The message was cordially en-heart. The message was cordially endorsed.

The statehood question was brought up and the order hoped that at no distant date Montana would be included in the sisterhood. While this sentiment prevailed it was thought that the state constitution adopted in 1884 needed revision in certain matters, and before the constitution will be again submitted to a vote of the people the needed change should be made known.

The Knights advocated a measure and hoped the legislature would pass what is is called the co-operative law, such as is now in vogue in Pennsylvania. Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota and other states. This law differs from the corporation law, in that it gives small holders of stock in a company an equal vote with those having a controlling interest.

Many other matters of a private nature were transacted during the session which was pronounced by the delegates the most interesting yet held. The meeting adjourned at 4 p. m. yesterday, to meet again July 6, 1889, at Livingston.

Casey was called to Boulder Wednesday to defend the case of Robert Good of that place who was arrested several days ago on a charge of stealing a horse from Elkhorn. The horse was stolen last July, for which a prisoner is now serving a sentence in the Boulder jail. Mr. Good purchased the animal from the prisoner, it is said, the day it was stolen and has been using it ever since. The animal was stolen from one McIntyre, who upon certain information had Good taken into custody on the charge of grand larceny and after a prailingary, hearing Good was bound over on the charge of grand larceny and after a preliminary hearing Good was bound over in the sum of $500 to await the action of grand jury. The case was heard before the probate judge. Mr. Casey says he will have his client released in a few days, as he can prove that the man who is now in jail for stealing the horse gave the information that he might be set free.
